Permanent Disability Permit

- Issued for 3 years when the medical professional believes your condition is unlikely to improve.
- You do not need to go back to your medical professional for re-authorization

Renewal Process

The permit expiry date is always on the last day of the month indicated on the permit so you can renew any time in the month it expires.

As a courtesy, we do our best to mail renewal reminders about a month before expiry—but as a small non-profit, we can't always guarantee they'll go out on time. We encourage permit holders or their caregivers to track expiry dates and keep us updated with any changes to mailing address, phone number, or email.

Please note: Any fines for using an expired permit are the responsibility of the permit holder.

To Renew You Will Need:

- Your current permit number (or name if permit is lost)
- A form of payment
- Any changes in contact information

Lost or Stolen Permits

- Renewed early at normal processing fee
- Renewed for 3 more years

To avoid theft: If you are not parking in a designated stall, be sure the permit is kept out of sight.

Proper Permit Use

- This permit belongs to NDRC and can be cancelled if it's misused.
- Please do not lend permit to friends or family, even if they have a disability
- It can be used in any vehicle, as long as the permit holder is present and getting out.
- Never drive with the placard hanging. Display only after parking.
- Make sure it's visible. Place it on the dash, hang from the mirror, or attach to the visor. Ensure that the number, expiry date, and wheelchair symbol can be seen from outside.

Permit Validity Globally

- Permits issued by NDRC are valid throughout the province of BC, all of Canada, most parts of the U.S. and Europe.
- The FIA Guide for the Disabled Traveler provides basic information on the use of an NDRC Parking Permit in many locations around the world.
 - Go to: www.disabledmotorists.eu. Some of the location pages have a “Disabled Visitor” notice that can be printed and used in conjunction with your parking permit. Visitors to the UK must check with the local authorities at their destinations as not all localities recognize overseas parking permits

Other Reminders

- Spots are limited. If you’re having a “good day,” consider leaving the spot for someone else in greater need.
- Only use extra-wide wheelchair spots if needed. If you don’t use a wheelchair, leave those spots for someone who does—unless it's the only space available.
- Not all disabilities are visible. Please show kindness and avoid judgment.
- This permit doesn’t guarantee a space or exempt you from parking rules or fines.
- Keep your ID handy. Enforcement officers may ask to confirm you are the permit holder.
- Please tell NDRC and return or destroy the permit if the permit holder passes away.
- Update NDRC if your address or email address changes so we can ensure you receive your renewal letter.

About NDRC

Nanaimo Disability Resource Centre (NDRC) is a small local non-profit that helps people with disabilities navigate life’s challenges.

We offer three core programs:

- Accessible Parking Permit Program
- Information & Resource Referral – support with disability benefit applications and navigating local services
- Computer and Technology School – 1-on-1 tech help for seniors and people with disabilities

We also run a free income tax program for people with simple, low-income tax returns. For more information, feel free to ask one of our friendly front desk volunteers or any of our four part-time staff members on site and we’ll be happy to direct you. Every permit we issue helps fund these vital services!
